

BYU Advanced Scouting Report –
Week 5

2025 Offensive Scouting Report

- Offense ranks 30th in FBS for total offense for 2025. Averaging 469.0 YPG and 7.0 Yds/Play.
- Passing attack accounted for 3 TDs and 156.5 YPG. Rushing attack has accounted for 7 TDs and 312.5 YPG.
- Passing attack with true freshman QB Bear Bachmeier has seen solid success throwing down the middle. Play action has worked well due to their elite run game.
- Rushing attack has seen just about 60% of their runs go to the left side of the offensive line. Both QB Bear Bachmeier and Junior LJ Martin (career 1,477 yds, 11 TDs, and 1 fumble lost on 272 carries) lead the team in rush attempts. With 10 first downs in their first 2 games and an average of 7.46 yards after contact, he has been a problem this year.
- Tied for first in the country converting all 12 times they have entered the redzone.
- Bottom Line: Will establish their run game early. The passing offense relies on it to open up the middle of the field (65% of throws) so put pressure on their dynamic run game.

Key Takeaways:

- Offense returns 8 players lead by true freshman QB Bear Bachmeier. Built on a veteran offensive line and young weapons scattered throughout.
- QB #47 Bear Bachmeier has played a big role in both the passing game and the rush game as well to start his young career.
- RB #4 LJ Martin returns as the starter following a solid sophomore year where he went for 718 yds and 9 TDs. Only 1 career fumble lost on 272 carries.
- WR #2 Chase Roberts has elite speed has been the number 1 target thus far, catching balls all across the field.
- Versatile wide receiver #5 Cody Hagen steps into the starting role after #13 JoJo Phillips went down with an injury in their game against Stanford.
- Bottom Line: They're going to rely on the run game but are not afraid to let their freshman QB take control. Weapons all over the field with productive offensive depth and a great trust in their offensive line.

Offensive Key Takeaways:

- Pass O: Ranked 115th - 156.5 yards per game, 7.0 yards per attempt, 10.8 yards per completion, 3 passing touchdowns.
- Run O: Ranked 2nd - 312.5 yards per game, 7.0 yards per rush, 7 rushing touchdowns.
- Tendencies: Runs the ball twice as much as they pass (89 carries to 45 passing attempts).
- QB: True freshman QB Bear Bachmeier takes control of this BYU offense that likes to establish the run game. Leads the team in both passing game and on the ground, accounting for 60% of the team's touchdowns.
- WR: Veteran WR Chase Roberts leads the receiving core, posting a dominant 2.6 yards per route run last year, with only 3 drops on 52 receptions.
- OL: Redshirt senior Isaiah Jatta leads this talented offensive line that specializes in opening holes to establish the run game.

- Overall solid offensive line with great veteran presence.
- LT #71 Isaiah Jatta stands out amongst the rest as an elite talent in both the pass block and run block as well.
- RT #75 Andrew Gentry provides great size and C #63 Bruce Mitchell does as well, but has let up the only sack to QB Bear Bachmeier on the season.
- RG #55 Austin Leausa is the clear weak spot on the line and is the guy to target whenever BYU drops back to pass.
- Bottom Line: This group provides an elite run block and solid pass block as well. Containing RB LJ Martin and QB Bear Bachmeier will be crucial for defensive success.

Statistics: COM/ATT

YDS (YAC)

- True freshman QB in his first season as starter for BYU
- Passing attack has produced 156.5 YPG, 3 TDs through first two games
- Most efficient throwing between the numbers with limited production outside hashes
- Best concept is play action with a 71.4% comp, 9.9 YPA, 142.6 rating; used on 31.8% of dropbacks
- Completion percentage drops sharply when under pressure (66.7% → 50.0%)
- Rating also drops when under pressure (124.9 → 58.3)
- 2nd on team in rushing attempts as designed QB runs and scrambles are part of the offense
- Bottom Line: Bachmeier is a young QB who thrives in structure with play action and clean pockets, but struggles heavily under pressure and when pushed outside the numbers. Force him into known passing downs and off-script plays to create mistakes.

- No play action is least effective with 58.3% completions, 5.5 YPA and a 73.8 rating vs. 142.6 on PA
- Tends to throw short (0–9) but inefficient at 62.5% completions, 3.8 YPA and a 66.6 grade
- Bottom Line: Bachmeier struggles under pressure, without play action, and on short throws. Disrupt rhythm by taking away play action and generating pressure.

- Verified Max Speed of 20.7 MPH with an IGA Score of 76.0
- #2 Roberts is a primary boundary receiver and is the projected #1 receiver
- Will be featured in the Red Zone with his big 6'4 frame
- Had 52 receptions on 72 targets hauling 851 yards and 4 touchdowns last season
- Cerebral receiver who can make an impact at all 3 levels of passing games
- Bottom Line: Someone who will be featured in the passing game and look for them to call his number when they get in the RZ

- Verified Max Speed of 21.6 MPH and IGA Score of 80.4
- RS Jr who is used mainly in slot
- Like to get the ball in his hands and work after the catch with his 21.6 MPH speed
- Has primarily been used as a security blanket in short passing situations but can take the top off your defense
- Bottom Line: Great athlete that will look to be featured in screens and deep shots

- Verified Max Speed of 19.9 MPH and IGA Score of 72.3
- Sophomore in 2025 who had not done much his true freshman season
- Can win in many ways but is the guy you want the QB to target as he is inexperienced
- Part time player who doesn't see the field a ton because he is still developing
- Don't expect much production but can play a factor
- Bottom Line: Young receiver who they don't utilize much but has the athleticism to be a problem

- Verified Max Speed of 18.4 MPH and IGA Score of 65.5
- Transfer from Utah and is a focal point of BYU's passing attack in 2025
- Is an above average pass catcher with great hands. With only 2 drops in 301 routes run, look for him to try and solidify the pass game early on
- Lines up all over the field and has strong YAC ability with his 250 pound frame
- Don't sleep on his route running even though his athletic metrics aren't eye popping
- Bottom Line: A key part of the BYU offense that gets moved all over the field and is effective with the ball in his hands

2025 Defensive Scouting Report

- BYU's associate head coach and defensive coordinator Jay Hill has been with the team since 2022 in those roles. He also serves as the safeties coach.
- While they lost numerous starters, 10 of their 11 starters this season are returners to the program from 2024. This experience within the scheme has been vital to their fast start to the 2025 season.
- Defense likes to mix in a variety of blitz packages to try and confuse pass protection, while relying on their interior line primarily for gap control and interior run defense.
- Over half of their defensive play calls are classified as match coverage per PFF, with less than 20% of their calls being true man coverage, and a little over 20% being drop zone coverage.
- So far in 2025: Defense has allowed 206 YPG - 161 Passing YPG and 45 Rushing YPG.
- 3rd-down defense: Opponents converting 22%.
- BYU has forced 6 turnovers (4 INTs & 2 FRs) and registered 7 sacks.
- Bottom Line: BYU's defense has been lights out to start the season, as they just allowed their first touchdown in week 3. Their creative blitz packages have aided their success against both the run and pass.
- LB Kelly rushes the passer on over 50% of true passing downs. He is their 2nd worst coverage player.
- S Wall is their best player to attack in coverage. ED Clegg is the best lineman to attack with the run game.

Key Takeaways:

- BYU has allowed 1 TD and 3 FGs on their 6 red zone drives allowed.
- DI #55 John Taumoepeau has been an exceptional rotational run defender along the defensive line. While he brings very little as a pass rusher, he gives BYU great depth on their interior line.
- ED #90 Hunter Clegg rotates heavily along the defensive line, however he has been a very below average run defender without providing much of a pass rush presence.
- Bottom Line: BYU's versatile linebackers are the backbone of their defense. Glasker and Kelly are used as chess pieces in all 3 phases of defense and their impact, particularly when moving downhill toward the LoS, has fueled the exceptional start for BYU defensively. Identifying them and being assignment sound will be crucial for having success.

- BYU has 3 starters grading over an 80 in PFF's run grade, and another 4 starters grading over a 70.
- BYU has produced run stop wins on 67% of all of their tackles in run defense.
- BYU has missed 8.6% of their tackles in run defense.
- Bottom line: BYU's run defense has been exceptional through 3 games in large part due to their aggressive playcalling. Properly identifying blocking assignments will be crucial to have success on the ground, especially due to the size and power of their defensive line.

- LB #17 Jack Kelly has rushed the passer on over 45% of all passing downs going back to last season.
- Both of Houston's starting linebackers are the only starters pass rush grades over 70.
- Bottom line: BYU uses a lot of exotic pressure looks to generate pressure, relying heavily on their run stoppers along the line to maintain gap leverage to free up rush lanes for 2nd or 3rd level defenders. Proper blitzer identification will be key to having time to throw.

- BYU has played a very limited amount of true man coverage so far this season, and none of their players have graded well overall in those assignments.
- BYU has a 30% missed tackle rate when playing in man coverage.
- Bottom Line: If you can catch BYU in true man coverage, you can attack some of their lacking speed in catch and run scenarios, as they struggle to tackle overall when defending the pass in man coverage.

- BYU has 1 starters who have graded out at a 75 or above in zone coverage.
- BYU has 4 starters who has started out at a 65 or below in zone coverage.
- Reserve SAFs #11 Satuala and #25 Alfrey have both graded out above 79 in zone coverage in their limited reps.
- Bottom Line: A little over 20% of BYU's playcalls are drop zone coverage, and they do slightly better here overall than when in true man coverage. NB Prassas is their best starter in drop zone, and overall most of their starting secondary (with the exception of SAF #28 Wall) have performed better in zone than in man.

- IGA Score of 61.9
- Started 4 games for BYU in 2024 and finished with 14 TKLs, 4 TFLs, and 1 SCK.
- Pass Rush: Pass Rush Grade of 61.8; 0 sacks, 0 QB hits, and 1 total pressures (win rate of 10.0%); 0 penalties.
- Run Def/Tackling: Run Defense grade of 77.0 and Tackling grade of 73.0; 9 tackles, 3 assists, 1 missed (7.7%), 8 stops.
- Bottom line: Lutui is an athletically limited run defender who doesn't bring a lot as a pass rusher. He is an adequate run stopper overall who will sometimes drop into coverage when BYU runs some of their different blitz looks aimed at getting their offball backers into the backfield.

- Started 6 games for UTAH in 2024 and finished with 15 TKLs, 2 TFLs, and 1 SCK.
- Pass Rush: Pass Rush Grade of 62.2; 1 sacks, 1 qb hits and 5 total pressures (win rate of 8.1%); 0 penalties.
- Run Def/Tackling: Run Defense grade of 62.6 and Tackling grade of 68.2; 3 tackles, 3 assists, 1 missed (14.3%), 4 stops.
- Bottom line: Tanuvasa has been a well rounded, but slightly below average player so far this season. While his pass rush grades are in line with how he performed at Utah last season, he was a better run defender last year than he has been to start this season (73.7 run defense grade), and that is likely where he will have the most effect along BYU's line.

- IGA Score of 69.9
- Played 11 games for BYU in 2024 and finished with 8 TKLs and 1 SCK.
- Pass Rush: Pass Rush Grade of 55.8; 0 sacks, 0 QB hits, and 2 total pressures (win rate of 4.0%); 0 penalties.
- Run Def/Tackling: Run Defense grade of 83.7 and Tackling grade of 76.5; 4 tackles, 0 assists, 0 missed (0%), 4 stops.
- Bottom line: Po'oha has had a very solid start to the year as a run defender, but he is overall a very limited and one dimensional player. He was much better as a pass rusher in 2024, producing a pass rush grade of 73.7, and so there may be some potential for him to rebound as the season goes along. However he is also a very athletically limited player, somewhat capping that upside.

- Verified Max Speed of 19.8 MPH and IGA Score of 85.2
- Started 13 games for BYU in 2024 and finished with 54 TKLs, 1 FF, 1 INT, and 1 PBU.
- Pass Rush: Pass Rush Grade of 91.9; 3 sacks, 1 QB hit, and 8 total pressures (win rate of 25.0%).
- Coverage: Coverage Grade of 59.7; allowed 3 RECs on 5 TGTs (60.0%) for 26 YDs; 0 penalties.
- Run Def/Tackling: Run Defense grade of 69.1 and Tackling grade of 87.0; 11 tackles, 3 assists, 1 missed (6.7%), 1 FF, 9 stops.
- Bottom line: Kelly is a good athlete and tackler who is much better playing downhill than in coverage. While his aggression can cause him to over pursue or shoot the wrong gaps at time in run defense, he has been exceptional as a pass rusher in his career, with 22 career sacks coming into this season. He has poor coverage skills and while he does not allow much after the catch, he can be targeted for completions.

- Max Speed: N/A and IGA Score of 72.3
- Played 5 games for BYU in 2024 and finished with 4 TKLs.
- Coverage: Coverage Grade of 60.1; allowed 1 RECs on 2 TGTs (100.0%) for 7 YDs; 0 penalties.
- Run Def/Tackling: Run Defense grade of 80.3 and Tackling grade of 72.1; 5 tackles, 4 assists, 1 missed (10.0%), 2 stops.
- Bottom line: Esera is the most likely LB for BYU to stay in coverage of their 3 starters. He is a more athletically limited player than their other 2 starters, and also the only new starter of the trio. He is a great run defender, but overall weak in coverage.

- Verified Max Speed of 18.8 MPH and IGA Score of 79.3
- Started 9 games for BYU in 2024 and finished with 67 TKLs, 1 FF, 3 INTs, and 3 PBU.
- Pass Rush: Pass Rush Grade of 81.0; 1 sack, 1 QB hit, and 4 total pressures (win rate of 11.5%).
- Coverage: Coverage Grade of 63.9; allowed 5 RECs on 7 TGTs (71.4%) for 44 YDs; 0 penalties.
- Run Def/Tackling: Run Defense grade of 76.4 and Tackling grade of 70.4; 9 tackles, 3 assists, 2 missed (14.3%), 1 FF, 7 stops.
- Bottom line: Glasker has exceptional size and solid athleticism for a player who spends most of his time in coverage. Overall he is a well rounded player who they will use as a pass rusher as well as in coverage. As a starter in 2024 he generated 11 pressures and had 4 sacks. While he did well in coverage last year, he has struggled more this season and can miss tackles on occasion against players quicker than him.

- Verified Max Speed of 21.1 MPH and IGA Score of 85.4
- Played 7 games for BYU in 2024 and finished with 1 PBU.
- Coverage: Coverage Grade of 73.3; 2 PBUs, allowed 5 RECs on 9 TGTs (55.6%) for 30 YDs and 0 TDs; 2 penalties (1 accepted).
- Run Def/Tackling: Run Defense grade of 66.7 and Tackling grade of 60.7; 5 tackles, 1 assists, 1 missed (14.3%), 1 stop.
- Bottom line: Alexander is a lengthy corner and one of the best athletes on BYU's defense, but he also lacks a lot of weight on his frame. He is a poor run defender and one of the worst tacklers among BYU's starting lineup. Despite his length, his slight frame should make it easier to use physicality to disrupt his coverage.

- Run Def/Tackling: Run Defense grade of 71.1 and Tackling grade of 68.6; 8 tackles, 1 assists, 1 missed (10%), 0 stops.
- Bottom line: Johnson is arguably the best athlete on BYU, and has started the season only allowing 2 catches on 5 targets. His experience as a rotational player last year, while also in his 4th year at BYU, gives him good experience to draw from. He is slightly subpar against the run and as a tackler.

- Bottom line: Prassas is an above average athlete overall, however his max speed and time to max speed are below average for his position. He is long and has a bigger frame, which helps in his ability to defend the run, but his deep speed limitations can be taken advantage of if you can isolate him in coverage on any crossing patterns or deep passes.
